On June 16, the positive personal experiences from the cooperation between organizations involving the project were stated for better understanding cultural characteristics of different countries, spreading new friendships and improved skills for project work. Also, there were specified dates for future transnational meetings and it was talked about preparations for the next XI European Congress for Autism "Happy, healthy, empowered," which will be held in September 2016 in Edinburgh. ESIPP project will participate in a poster presentation, titled "Developing parent education in autism in South East Europe."

The team, responsible for implementation and evaluation of training for parents of children with autism, evaluated past trainings from R. Croatia and Macedonia and presented future topics for the next training from Ron Fortuna and Angela Capper from Target Autism. In addition to working activities, the guests had possibility to visit Archaeological museum at Faculty of Philosophy, to meet the city of Skopje with all its beauties and land marks.

On June 17, 2016 in POU "Dr Zlatan Sremac" Skopje, 17 parents of children with autism from different parts of the Republic Macedonia had the opportunity to participate in two workshops, "Issues related to problems in eating and sleep patterns in children with autism," held by Ron Fortuna and Angela Capper from the organization "Target Autism" and "Puberty and adolescence in autism" held by Dr David Preece from the University of Northampton. Also, parents had the opportunity to talk with Julia Harcastle, parent of two children with autism from the parent organization "Autism Concern" from Northampton.
